First Carload Wheat Shipped Yesterday From Pool Elevator

The honor of shipping the first car of new wheat this year fell to the Pool Elevator. Hugh Lee, the Pool agent states that the wheat was a splendid sample of Garnet, grading No. 2 Northern. The average yield of this car of wheat was 27 bushels per acre. The car was consigned to Vancouver for export.

TOURISTS FROM U.S. MAY RETURN WITH GOODS WORTH $100

Removal of vexatious restrictions on tourists has long been urged at conventions of the Alberta Motor Association. It has been shown that this country is desirous of making a strong appeal to motorists from south of the border, this being the country to which a large percentage of them intend to drive for holiday jaunts.

There is therefore satisfaction among those promoting the work of the A.M.A. over the recent announcement from Washington that tourists will have no trouble taking purchases back to their own country as long as they follow instructions.

Writing from the U. S. capital to the Ontario Motor League, F. A. Weber, U.S. Commissioner of Customs, stated that the provisions still remain which allow tourists to bring back from Canada souvenirs of their visit in the shape of wearing apparel, table linen, pictures, books, musical instruments, pipes, cutlery, chinaware, stationery and "bric-a-brac" up to $100 in value free of duty. This definite ruling was obtained as the U.S. bureau had ruled in a recent case that a desk brought in from abroad was not entitled to free entry. His reply shows that the old ruling in respect to tourists visiting Canada still stands, despite the recent decision.

Threshing returns give evidence of an average crop.

Reform Of Electoral Methods

Recent elections in Great Britain, in Canada, and more recently still in the Province of Saskatchewan, all seem to point in the same direction, and that is to a change in the system or methods of choosing Parliamentary representatives. For many generations the underlying principle of the British system of responsible government has been ruled by the majority of the people as indicated by their selection of party representatives in the House of Commons or Legislative Assembly, as the case may be. And such representatives were chosen, for the most part, by constituencies represented by a single member. So long as the electorate were divided into only major parties or groups of political thought this system worked fairly well, although it was never wholly representative of public opinion.

Now, however, that the two-party system has been, or is being, replaced by three and sometimes four or more parties, the weaknesses of the old system have become apparent, and the old principle of rule by majority is rapidly becoming impossible of realization. On the contrary, at Westminster, at Ottawa, at Regina, each party represented in Parliament is a minority party, and in each instance the smallest of these minority groups holds the balance of power. In each of the legislative bodies referred to, the group having the largest representation in the House constitutes the government party, but at any moment, and on any question that may arise, the government may suffer defeat and be called upon to give place to another minority group.

With the exception of the United States where the two-party system continues in favor, partly, perhaps, because it is so interwoven into the whole fabric of government, national, state, municipal, even county and judicial, it appears to be giving way throughout the world. In Germany, France, Belgium, and other countries having responsible government, government is only possible by a coalition of parties, or a working understanding between them. Admittedly, it does not make for strong government or stability in government, France being a notable example.

The multiplication of political parties or groups has, in most European countries, brought about a change in electoral methods. In some, single member constituencies have been abolished, the single transferable ballot, or Proportional Representation adopted, or the second election system inaugurated. Even in the United States the primary system almost amounts to a second election. In a word, it is recognized that the single member constituency where a mere plurality of votes is sufficient to elect, regardless of the number of candidates in the field, no longer meets the needs of the situation.

And it is becoming increasingly evident that it will not for long prove acceptable to the people of Great Britain, or Canada, or in the Provinces of Canada. Opponents of Proportional Representation have always argued that it tends to a multiplication of parties or groups, but the fact now has to be faced that this multiplication has taken place under the existing system. The system itself, therefore, must be altered to meet the changed conditions.

Most politicians will not welcome any change, but they cannot prevent it. The important question is—What basis of representation and method of voting shall be adopted to best meet the needs of the new conditions that have arisen? Already the subject is engaging the attention of political students in Great Britain, and it is confidently predicted that the unwritten constitution of the Old Country will perforce undergo some change. Occupying the commanding position he does in the present Parliament, and suffering the handicap of a much smaller representation in the House of Commons than the vote polled by his candidates in the country justly entitles him to, Lloyd George will not long remain content with things as they are. He can, and probably will, demand as one price of his continued support of the Ramsay MacDonald Labor Government a reform of electoral methods and machinery which will accord full value to every individual vote cast, and not place third or fourth party candidates at a distinct disadvantage.

Whether the solution is to be found in larger multiple-member constituencies replacing the present single-member seats, with the adoption of the single transferable ballot, or even Proportional Representation, or in a complete change in the accepted form of cabinet responsibility, involving a fixed term for Parliaments and Legislatures, denial to a government of the right of dissolution except upon a straight vote of want of confidence, and the formation of a cabinet consisting of representatives of all groups, and based upon their respective numerical strength in the House, time alone will disclose.

One thing, however, may be accepted as sound, and that is that the genius of British statesmanship which in the past evolved the best form of democratic government the world has yet known will be capable of meeting the new situation and solving the problems which it presents.

When Pain Comes

What many people call indigestion, very often means excess acid in the stomach. The stomach nerves have been over-stimulated, and food sours. The corrective is an alkali, which neutralizes acids instantly. And the best alkali known to medical science is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained the standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention. One spoonful of this harmless, tasteless alkali in water will neutralize instantly many times as much acid, and the symptoms disappear at once. You will never use crude methods when once you learn the efficiency of this. Go get a small bottle to try. Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. Each bottle contains full directions—any drugstore.

Plane In Freak Accident

Strikes Steam Roller In Making Landing At Roosevelt Field

When an aeroplane and a steam roller collided at Roosevelt Field, N.Y., the accident ruined the plane and injured the operator of the roller.

James Riddle, piloting a small monoplane in which two friends were riding as passengers, chose for his landing a part of the field which is being levelled off and on which two steam rollers were at work, hidden from the air by the cloud of dust they raised.

The descending plane took off the smoke stack of one of the rollers and bowled the operator, A. C. Madberal, from his seat, breaking his shoulder.

The plane crashed, tearing off the left wing, and otherwise damaging it beyond repair, but Riddle and his passengers escaped without injury.

NEW HEALTH FOR TIRED-OUT WOMEN

Found In the Rich, Red Blood Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Actually Make

Anaemia comes on gradually, beginning with languor, indisposition to mental or bodily exertion, irritability and a feeling of fatigue. Later comes the palpitation of the heart, headaches, frequent backaches and often disturbed digestion and an inability to obtain rest at night. Cases of this kind, if neglected, become more serious, but if taken in time there is no need to worry. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which are free from any harmful or habit-forming drug, are just the tonic needed to remedy this wretched state of health. These pills actually make the rich, red blood that stimulates and strengthens every organ and nerve in the body. Thus strength and activity return, the appetite improves and restful sleep is had. What Dr. Williams' Pink Pills can and will do is shown by the case of Mrs. D. B. Fanning, Seal Harbor, N.S., who says:—"I was in a badly run-down condition. I was pale, my appetite was very poor, and the least exertion would leave me completely tired out. In fact I was hardly able to do much work about the house. I decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and after taking a few boxes can truthfully say I had gained greatly in health and strength and was able to go about my work with no sign of the former weakness. I cheerfully recommend them to all others who may be in a run-down condition." You can get the pills from your druggist, or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Plant Grows Leaves After Having "Sleep"

Replaces Withered Foliage In Fifteen Or Twenty Minutes

After "sleep" of from 15 to 20 minutes, a plant, recently developed in Germany, produces new leaves. So sensitive is it that if the leaves are touched, or a match burned near them, they immediately wither and fall off. In about a quarter of an hour after the withered leaves have dropped off, new ones grow out. The plant is a member of the mimosa family. It grows in great quantities in India, where it is gathered and sold for commercial purposes. The bruised leaves are said to have a high medicinal value in healing burns.

Keeps a Mouse Farm

Have you ever heard of a mouse farm? There is one at Rayleigh, in Essex, where mice are reared just as cattle and sheep are on ordinary farms. There are 50,000 mice, and of nearly every color. Yet, although there are so many, Mr. Tuck, the farmer, can put his hands on any one of them at a moment's notice. About three hundred young ones are born every day, and it takes five hours to feed them all. They are sold to colleges and hospitals for experiments.

U.S. To Reduce Military Expenses

President Hoover Says Military Budget Now Greater Than Any Other Country

President Hoover intends to establish a commission of army officers within the general staff to see what can be done toward reducing military expenditures.

The commission, the president said recently, would be charged with making an enquiry to determine what has been made obsolete by scientific advancements and could be done away with, and what army programmes can be spread over longer period than originally intended and at the same time maintain complete and adequate preparedness.

The president said the purely military expenses of the United States constitute a military budget greater than that of any other nation and at a time when he considers there is less danger of war than at any period within the last fifty years.

It is now estimated, he said, that the military outlay for 1923 will be $803,000,000, which is $120,000,000 more than the similar expenditure for the fiscal year just closed, and compares with an average pre-war expenditure for military activities of the army and navy of $266,000,000 annually.

Turner Valley Oil

Production and Revenue Shown To Be Increasing Rapidly

The Turner Valley oil field in Alberta becomes increasingly significant and its production and revenue are steadily increasing. A continuous rise in naphtha production has been recorded month by month since the beginning of the year. In January there was a total of 38,501 barrels turned out with a value of $154,000, which rose by consistent increments to 92,122 barrels worth $368,480 in June. The total for the six months of the year was 386,272 barrels of crude naphtha worth $1,545,088. The expectation is for fully 100,000 barrels in July which would give a revenue for the month of some $400,000.

Cyclists Honor War Dead

Nearly 10,000 cyclists, many of whom had ridden all night from the extremes of England and Wales, gathered on a recent Sunday morning before the National Cyclists' Memorial, at Meridan, believed to be the exact centre of England. About 3,000 of the cyclists were girls, and most of them wore cycling breeches. A brief service was held at the memorial, which was erected seven years ago to commemorate cyclists killed in the World War.

Laudable Movement Has For Its Object the Interpretation Of British and Canadian Music

Fashion has its place in music as well as other things, and fashion has had much to do with the neglect of British music. Until the beginning of the seventeenth century, English music was celebrated throughout Europe. John Dunstable was the greatest composer of the fifteenth century, while in Elizabeth's day John Dowland and John Bull were musicians coveted by foreign courts. Then came a time of Italian music followed by another tide from France. The titanic genius of Handel favoured by Hanoverian kings made England musically a German province for at least a hundred years, and as Germany and Austria produced a marvelous succession of composers, it was difficult, indeed, for the British musician to raise his head. Then came a deluge of Slav music with a recrudescence of French influence to swamp any British renaissance.

With the twentieth century, however, the situation has changed. The English madrigal, lutenist and church music of the Elizabethan period was unearthed and made known through the enterprise of scholars such as Dr. E. H. Fellowes. The immensely rich field of British folk music was at the same time coming to be realized, and in this field the British musician found an inspiration which has resulted in compositions of new vitality and distinction. Marjory Kennedy Fraser, for instance, in her arrangements of the "Songs of the Hebrides," has done work of intense appeal, while in compositions based on English folk-song the name of R. Vaughan Williams is internationally known. Indeed, the firmament of modern music is dotted with British stars, whose names perhaps have sometimes a Continental ring, but whose birth record is unimpeachably British—such names as Elgar, Stanford, Patti, Debussy, Holst, Cyril Scott, Arnold Bax and Dame Ethel Smyth.

Music in order to live must be performed, and therein lies one of the handicaps of the British composer. So many players and singers have been schooled on purely Continental European classics that concert and operatic audiences do not get much opportunity of hearing anything else. New York is the mecca of the European concert and operatic artist, and Canada gets its quota of New York artists on tour. This gives us a great deal of good music, but mostly music of Continental Europe, the percentage of British music being almost negligible.

It is, therefore, in the national interest that Canadians should have more opportunity of hearing the music which is their legitimate heritage, and with that end in view the music department of the Canadian Pacific Railway has organized a series of concert tours with artists of distinction who will interpret British and Canadian music to Canadian audiences. For practical considerations, Canadian Pacific hotels in six large cities have been chosen for this series.

The scheme has the warm approval of leaders in the Canadian musical world, such as Dr. Ernest MacMillan, Principal of the Toronto Conservatory of Music.

Canada has so recently emerged into nationhood that any large output of distinctively Canadian music could hardly be expected. There is, however, a rich store of folksongs, particularly in the Province of Quebec, retained by tradition from the early settlers of New France and so adapted to Canadian life as worksongs that they have assumed a colour and quality of their own. There are, too, a number of young Canadian composers whose work is obtaining recognition by international publishers. Among the interpreters of music, Canadian singers and players are to be found among the foremost in London, Eng., Paris and New York, while the Canadian ensemble known as the Hart House Quartette, is second to none.

The first recital of the series will be given by Marjory Kennedy Fraser, the gifted woman who sings in beautiful fashion the lovely songs of the Hebrides, which she has given to a musical world. She will be accompanied by her sister, Margaret Kennedy, a well-known teacher, who was given the honorary degree of A.R.A.M. for her services as lecturer on harmony at the Royal Academy.

The second concert is that of Stanley Maxstead, brilliant tenor of Montreal, and Mary James, soprano star of the Banff Scottish Festivals. The third group is composed of Florence Hood, an English violinist, now living in Montreal, and Jean Rowe, lyric soprano of Toronto. Rudolphe Plamondon, French-Canadian tenor and his son Lucien, cellist, will be another pair, the Hart House quartette the fifth, and John Goss, an English baritone, will complete the series.

Marjory Kennedy Fraser and her sister will start their tour at the Empress Hotel at Victoria, September 12, after the Banff Scottish Festival at which she will be one of the principal artists. Her other concerts in the trans-Canada tour will be given at Vancouver, Sept. 16; Calgary, the Hotel Palliser, Sept. 21; Regina, the Hotel Saskatchewan, Sept. 23; Winnipeg, the Royal Alexandra, Sept. 26, and the Royal York at Toronto, Sept. 30.

Value Of Sleep

Possible To Live Longer Without Food Than Without Sleep

Science has evolved drugs that will put one to sleep, but just what it is that brings natural sleep is as great a mystery today as it was to the cave-man who curled up on his rock mattress with his flowing beard spread over him for a quilt. It is a commentary on human nature that we are more particular about our food than we are about regular hours of sleep, yet it is a fact, definitely established, that it is possible to live much longer without food than without the benign embrace of Morpheus. —Hamilton Spectator.

Alberta Pool Interim Payment

One dollar a bushel will be the interim payment on wheat for grain delivered to the 1929-30 crop, according to an announcement made at the Alberta Wheat Pool offices in Calgary. Last fall when a bad slump in wheat prices occurred the initial payment was lowered from $1 to 85 cents, but the previous interim payment will be issued this fall.

Western Coal Operators Are Interested In Railway Board Hearing On Freight Rates

Western coal operators, according to their head, W. W. McBain, are wholeheartedly behind the joint action of the provinces of Alberta and Ontario in requesting a further Railway Board hearing on the subject of freight rates.

Formal application for this hearing has just been made by J. Earl Lawson, of Toronto, counsel for the two provinces.

"Considerable quantities of domestic fuel were shipped to Ontario during 1928," Mr. McBain says in explaining the situation, "under the Order-in-Council providing a temporary freight rate of $6.75 per ton. The Federal Government undertook to secure the railways against loss in hauling the coal and the Order-in-Council authorized the Board of Railway Commissioners to name what amount, if any, was due to the railways after the conclusion of each seasonal movement, of which the 1928 one was the first.

"Now, as we understand it, the railways are applying to the Board for definite payment per ton on the coal hauled last year. As the coal operators view the matter, the chief reason for carrying on these experiments in coal transportation is in order to ascertain over a period of years, exactly what it does cost to bring coal into Ontario from the west. The Order-in-Council, as we read it, states this in the plainest terms.

"The statements which have been submitted to the Board," Mr. McBain continued, "apparently take a different view of the matter and disregard the actual or out-of-pocket cost of hauling the fuel. Ontario and Alberta have made a submission to the Board, to this effect, asking for a hearing on the question and requesting that the two roads furnish the Commissioners with this further information."

Mr. McBain pointed out that the stand taken, both before the Senate Committee in 1923, and the Committee of Mines and Minerals of the House of Commons, was that a distinctively Canadian fuel policy, which would tend to provide for the needs of Canadian consumers from the output of Canadian mines, would be very much in the national interest. Alberta has sufficient coal resources to provide for the Dominion's needs for eighteen centuries. Ontario pays into the pockets of American operators and railroads approximately thirty millions annually as a result of her purchases of anthracite in this foreign market. It would be greatly in the national interest to keep this money in Canada, and the problem of doing so boils down to one of transportation.

"It has been taken for granted," Mr. McBain stated, "that the great economic importance of a national fuel policy put the matter on a different plane from any ordinary discussion of haulage costs, and that some scheme might properly be worked out under which fixed charges, which the railways must meet in any case, and which go on just the same, whether fuel is hauled or whether it is not, would not be assessed against the coal movement, particularly so, since the coal would be carried during the off-peak grain season, and in cars which would otherwise be lying idle on the sidings.

"Naturally, any such rate must also be fair to the railways," Mr. McBain said, "but the first necessary preliminary to the consideration of a permanent arrangement is definite knowledge of what it does actually cost the two great transcontinental roads to bring the coal east. That is what the two provinces are asking the Board of Railway Commissioners, at Ottawa, to find out, and an investigation, with that end in view, was requested by the Order-in-Council of last year.

"When Mr. E. P. Mallory, the expert of the National lines, appeared before the Senate Committee in 1923," Mr. McBain declared, "he gave $8.91 per ton, as the out-of-pocket cost and, subsequently, a telegram to the Committee from Sir Henry Thornton, made the offer to carry the coal at $9 per ton. At that time, operating costs were higher than they are today, as the reports of the railways show, so that it is logical to suppose that the cost now is less than it was at the time the suggest of a $9 rate was made.

"In September 1927, two reports on the out-of-pocket cost were made by the Board of Railway Commissioners following an official inquiry into costs. The majority report found the out-of-pocket cost of coal transportation to be $7.22 per ton, while the minority report gave a figure of $6.50 per ton. The operating costs on which these calculations were based were also higher than those of the present time.

"But we are informed," Mr. McBain concluded, "that, on the basis of the 1928 coal movement, one statement gives $15.03 per ton as the amount claimed or, in other words, the difference between $6.75 and $15.03 as the sum per ton which the government should pay.

"This is not only much higher than either the $7.22 or $6.50 Railway Board out-of-pocket figures and well above the $9 offer of 1923; but it is even $3 per ton higher than the average rate for all commodities for the distance which the coal was moved."

Swedes Are Original

The Swedes have made great advances recently. Unlike other nations they are not slavishly following Anglo-Saxons. They are developing a civilization of their own. A Swede controls the world match market. Another Swede, a lady, has won the Nobel prize for the best novel. Another Swede is one of the two chief radium experts in the world, and still another is recognized as one of the greatest modern architects.

LOSING YOUNG FOLK

Hon. R. B. Bennett in a speech made at Stewart, B.C., the most northerly Canadian point on the Pacific, deplored the loss of young Canadians to the American republic.

"If I were in power," he said, "I would enact such laws as would give Canadian boys and girls a chance for self-expression and the development of their gifts so that they need not leave Canada. We have lost annually in recent years 100,000 people who had to find jobs in the States. There were no jobs here because we spent $500,000,000 in the last year alone in the purchase of goods from the U.S. which should have been bought in Canada. We are exporting our raw products and then exporting our manhood after them to work on these products. And we are buying goods in the U.S. which could be made here. Most of the people we are losing are under 45 years of age."

SOLITUDE

Out of human companionship a man gains strength and faith and hope for the task he chooses. Yet the task remains his own, and its burden he cannot share. There is comfort in companionship and incentive in the applause and encouragement of his fellows, but the measure of greatness in a man is his ability to walk alone in the path of his destiny.

Colonel Lindbergh is one of the line of humanity's heroes not alone for his deed but for the splendid isolation of his performance of it. In many ways he personifies high aim and achievement, and in this also—that his purpose and power were compassed in his own heart and hands. Great men through history have done no less; they have withdrawn within themselves to find strength and resource, have planned their courses unaided and achieved their goals alone.

It is said of Lincoln that he was a lonely man despite his love and sympathy for those he worked with and for. The wisdom of Socrates, the stern integrity of Brutus, the devoted martyrdom of Tyndale and every service or sacrifice to the cause of humanity have been wrought out of the essential stuff of a lonely human mind. Yet this inevitable isolation is no sorrowful burden; it is part of the image and likeness into which man is created. Something of divinity is mirrored in it, and into it is poured from above and within a stream of power for great purpose, clear sight and high achievement.

Something of this solitude is in every man. It is the stuff of which individuality, personality and responsibility are made. He who can face it unafraid measures up to the full stature of a man.

ODE TO THE HORSE

Irma Times—O horse, you are a wonderful thing. No horns to hork, no bells to ring; no license buying every year, with plates to screw on front and rear.

No sparks to miss, no gears to strip. You start yourself, no clutch to slip; no gas bills mounting every day to steal the joy of life away. Your inner tubes are all O.K., and, thank the Lord, they stay that way.

Your spark plugs never miss or fuss. Your motor never makes us cuss. Your frame is good for many

WHAT OTHER EDITORS ARE SAYINGCOMMUNITY SERVICES

It used to be frequently said in smaller towns, that it is the business of a good citizen to mind his own business, keep out of debt and avoid breaking laws. It was commonly thought that if he did that, it was about all that could be expected of him, and he was conforming to the ideals of good citizenship.

But a community's development cannot be promoted in these times on any such limited basis. The fact that so many small town people still have this spirit, and expect to get along without doing anything in particular to boost community movements, is one of the principal reasons why some towns do not get ahead faster.

Some must take hold and carry on the work of churches and fraternal societies. Some of the men with a special head for business need to work in some organization for the commercial and other needed development of the community. Some need to work in clubs for educational purposes, and for more interesting social activities. There is something that each one should do and we must all take hold to do something in these public lines, if we expect that a town is going to keep up with the game. People cannot reasonably act as if they are making a great sacrifice if they devote a little energy to such purposes.

Camrose has been fortunate in possessing public spirited citizens willing to get behind any movement for the benefit or betterment of the community. It cannot be denied this spirit has done much to make Camrose one of the best known towns in the prairie provinces, particularly in respect to horticultural activity that has made it so attractive.

Just at this period, consideration is being given to a plan that may result in a swimming pool, and surely should be looked upon in the nature of a community asset of as great value as a curling rink, skating rink, golf course, tennis courts or any of the enterprises that have called for more or less community co-operation.

Formula To Remove Road Oil Stains Off Your Automobile

Now that all motorists in this district will be travelling more or less on oiled roads, there is a possibility that a passing car on the highway will throw some of the oil onto the body of your car. Here is a formula for removing it: Soak the spots with lubricating oil or warm lard, and wipe clean with a cotton flannel cloth. Any grease or oil then left on the body can be washed off with soapy water. Never apply soap in its concentrated form direct to the body. A good solution can be made by dissolving Ivory soap, or any other mild soap in boiling water. After allowing it to cool, the solution can be added to a larger volume of cold water.

FORD CAR HOUDAILLE HYDRAULIC SHOCK ABSORBERS

Positive—Smooth— Double Acting—

HOUДАILLE Hydraulic Shock Absorbers, four to every Ford car, are entirely defensive in their action since they remain inactive and in neutral position on smooth roads. Let a wheel encounter the slightest depression or bump, however, and they respond with the velvet precision of a cat's paw.

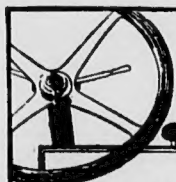

Houdaille Shock Absorbers were not adapted to the Ford car after it was built, but were part of the specifications laid down by the Ford engineers as they planned the car. Therefore, Houdailles, their powerful operation coordinated, became integral parts of the complete chassis. It is for this reason that they function with such perfect efficiency on the Ford car.

Houdailles absorb both the upward and downward thrust of the shock through slowing the spring action by means of a heavy glycerine solution, which is forced through a small valve from one compartment to another. They check the rebound of the car softly, exert no tension on the springs and are always ready to offer resistance to the blow when and as required. In fact, the more severe the shock, the more effectively Houdailles operate.

Different from any other shock absorber, the Houdaille connecting link between the frame and the axle of the car is a steel arm, not just a fabric strip to wear out and be replaced. Adjustable to suit differing road conditions and various loads, the Houdaille is more than a shock absorber and more than a snubber.

Inspect the Ford car carefully part by part. Then know the thrill of driving it. By its performance you will realize the easy riding comfort of an Houdaille equipped Ford.

RUGBY NOTES

The flower and vegetable contest of the joint W.L.'s of Rugby and Westcott was held on Thursday afternoon, Aug. 22nd. Considering the dry weather the exhibits were good, although not nearly as numerous as they should have been. The judges were Mr. and Mrs. Holton of the O.S.A., and the prize money was pretty evenly divided between the two Institutes.

While the judging was being done we were delightfully entertained by several musical numbers, as follows: Vocal solo, Mrs. McFarlane; violin solo, Miss Summers; piano solo, Miss Levagood and guitar solo, Miss Tuggle.

A contest entitled "The Romance of the Flowers" was put on, the winner being Mrs. Ray.

Mr. Hopleton spoke briefly and then the prize winners were announced, after which we closed a most pleasant afternoon with the singing of the National Anthem. Lunch was then served. All the exhibits were sent to the hospital.

On account of the conference in Carstairs on September 4th our September meeting will be held one day later than usual, Friday, Sept. 6th, at the home of Mrs. Shannon.

The shooting of deer is now prohibited in that part of the province south of the North Saskatchewan river and east of the C. & E. Railway line from Edmonton to McLeod, thence following the line between ranges 25 and 26 to the international boundary line.

On Tuesday, Sept. 3rd, the Didsbury high and public schools will open. The teachers who have been secured as members of the staffs are as follows: High School: A.A. Reeves, Principal, Miss K. McNab and Miss R. McKenzie. Public School: Grades 7-8, Mr. C. R. Ford, Principal; Grades 5-6, Mr. G. W. Sutherland; Grades 3-4, Miss V. Sexsmith; Grades 1-2, Miss V. M. Dawson; Primary, Miss R. Liesemer.

A Master Scientist

Dean Boyle, Of Alberta University, Accepts Post On Research Council

It may be assumed that when the National Research Council of Canada is able to attract to its staff scientists of the calibre of Dr. R. W. Boyle, M.A., Ph.D., dean of the faculties of physics and applied science at the University of Alberta, who has accepted the post of director of the physics and engineering division of the Council, it will, before long, be able to give a very good account of itself.

Dean Boyle, although only some 45 years of age, is already one of Canada's foremost scientists, ranking not far behind Professor J. C. McLennan, of the University of Toronto. During the war he showed that he was no mere theorist in his chosen work, for he rendered important service to the British Admiralty in perfecting a device for the detection of submarines. His scientific and creative mind has also been responsible for devices for the detection of icebergs. He appears one of Canada's master scientists and it is fortunate that his services are now to be made available for Canada as a whole. The University of Alberta has now given two of its staff to the National Research Council. Dr. H. M. Tory, chairman of the council, is a former president of that institution.

Lady Jane Moreton, mother of Lady Byng, died at Brighton, England, very suddenly at the age of 83 years. She was the widow of Sir Richard Moreton, son of the Earl of Ducie, who died in March, 1927.

William Johnson, a powder monkey when the last shots were fired in the Crimean War, and a witness of the last hanging for naval insubordination, died recently at Weymouth, England, aged 85.

Official circles have intimated that the government was considering the possibility of voluntary curtailment of naval building as a gesture supporting building suspensions announced by Premier Ramsay MacDonald, of Great Britain, and President Hoover of the United States.

Seth B. Nicholson, observer at the Mount Wilson observatory, said a gigantic spot has been discovered near the equator of the sun. The spot, described as having eighty times the magnetic intensity of ordinary sun spots. Dr. Nicholson said, was powerful enough to cause serious magnetic storms on the earth.

For Scalds Or Burns.—Dr. Thomas Electric Oil is a standard remedy for the prompt treatment of scalds and burns. Its healing power quickly soothes the pain and aids a speedy recovery from the injury. It is also an excellent remedy for all manner of cuts, bruises and sprains, as well as for relieving the pains arising from inflammation of various kinds. Will Show Public Quality Of Goods Produced In Dominion

Co-operation of various bodies with the National Produced-in-Canada Exhibition, which will be held in Montreal from November 4 to 9, already seems assured, according to reports received by the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, Quebec division, Montreal branch. "These reports," says the Gazette, "show the consensus of opinion strongly supporting the scheme to illustrate to the public, through the medium of the exhibition, the quality and diversity of goods which are produced in Canada by Canadian manufacturers for Canadians."

Riches Of Northland

Vast Treasure House Of Precious Minerals In Northern Canada

Last week Mr. W. C. Cain, Deputy Minister of Lands and Forests of Ontario, who has been studying northern Ontario all his life and is an enthusiast for that country, stated that in his recent trip to the far north he was given a picture of northern possibilities that was beyond his previous ideas on the subject. Some time ago "The Financial Post" told of the existence of a vast bed of amber underneath a lake in Northern Manitoba. Already as a result of the publication of this article, which incidentally drew comments in British and American as well as Canadian papers, private parties have set on foot plans for the complete exploration of this deposit. Last week another article in this paper told of various indications of precious stones in the north and even suggested the possibility of diamonds being found.

Gold and silver are now commonplace in our northern picture and platinum is becoming almost familiar to our mining men. Iron ore in vast quantities exists in Ungava and on the islands of Hudson Bay and aluminum can be extracted from northern clays. Copper deposits are known to exist in Northern Saskatchewan and run into the Arctic Circle and air voyageurs have skimmed down upon the surface of lakes in the far north to find nickel and other base metals.

The north is an amazing country in future wealth. Canada can no longer be regarded as a narrow belt 3,600 miles long. It is a vast country approximately 3,000 miles square, with as much promise in the far north as in the east and the west.—Moose Jaw Times.

A New Safety Device

Polish Fliers Make Test Of Life-Saving Overalls

"Life saving overalls," designed for trans-Atlantic fliers, were given successful tests in Lake Maggiore, Italy, by two Polish fliers who hope to fly from Milan to Chicago in mid-August.

The overalls are of an especially heavy rubberized fabric, equipped with valves by which they may be inflated. They will keep their wearers afloat for many days, their inventor asserts.

An added novel feature of the garment is the equipment of electric batteries and light bulbs which will remain illuminated at least 60 hours, De Favori says.

DRAPED FLARE

A new silhouette for the youthful smart woman. It shows the raised waistline, a chic detail in all Paris frocks. The circular skirt in diagonal movement is draped at left side which is suggestive of wrapped treatment. Style No. 566 combines printed and plain cotton voile, the popular summer fabric. It comes in sizes 16, 18, 20 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. The deep slender neckline, makes it suitable for the larger woman, by placing the circularfulness low. Chartreuse green chiffon, tomato red crepe de chine, yellow handkerchief linen, orchid and white printed lawn, purple aster georgette crepe, printed rajah in capucine tones, and sky-blue sheer lace are distinctly smart combinations for this charming afternoon model. Pattern price 25 cents in stamps or coin (coin is preferred). Wrap coin carefully.

Church Collections Suffer

Using Big Nickels Instead Of Quarters In Offerings At Ottawa

Governments have been blamed for troubles a plenty, but Canada's law-makers are cited as the cause of a new ill. Decrease in church collections is the latest trouble laid at the door of the Dominion Government, and an Ottawa churchman has made the charge.

With the advent of the "big nickel," church collections have fallen off, a preacher stated today at a regular Sunday service. "The large five-cent pieces," he said, "are dropped into the collection plate with a flourish that belongs to nothing less than a quarter. I don't blame the smaller collections on the people, I blame the Government."

The Singing Fool

By HUBERT DAIL

Copyright, 1928, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.

SYNOPSIS

Marcus, the famous Broadway producer, takes a party of four to Blackie Joe's New York night club. Al Stone, Blackie's chief comedian and singing waiter, is desperately in love with Molly, the ballad singer, but she scornfully tells him she will never marry a waiter. After she refuses to read a love ballad he has written for her, she goes to the Marcus table and tries to ingratiate herself with the great producer. Al is in despair, but at Blackie Joe's suggestion he goes on the floor and sings the love song himself — to Molly. He is given a marvelous ovation. Grace, the cigarette girl, who is deeply in love with Al, is in tears. Even Molly is touched. Marcus asked enthusiastically, who wrote that song? and Molly answers, "The waiter—but I gave him the idea."

CHAPTER VII.

Marcus gazed at Molly with renewed interest.

"You gave him the idea, did you? Well, that number has a corking idea. I have a show where I can place it right now. Can you get the waiter over here? I want to talk to him."

Molly was up in a flash. "Of course he'll come over. I'll get him for you right away."

She tripped away rapidly, heading for Al, who was still standing in the main room by the dressing-room door. The crowd was clamoring for an encore and Molly walked among the clapping customers, hardly able to credit the turn in events. One thing was certain, Al, the obscure waiter, was already on the high road to an immense success. If Marcus took one song he would take others that Al had written. And this was the man whose love she had scorned but a half hour before? That was the song she had refused to read and pushed carelessly from her dressing table!

How would Al greet her now? She wondered as she walked toward him. Would he show pique because she had dismissed him; would his pride make him treat her coldly?

Meanwhile, Blackie Joe was using

Her Little Boy Was Very Ill With Summer Complaint

Mrs. Ray Fisher, Lebreton, Sask. writes:—"For over a month, last summer, my little boy was suffering from summer complaint. He got so bad there began to be traces of blood in his stool, and anything he ate would not stay on his stomach very long. He became so weak he could not stand up. A neighbor recommended his best efforts to induce Al to sing an encore.

"Go out once more, Al," he pleaded. "Give them something else — anything will do. Can't you hear how they've stopped the show for you?"

But Al shook his head. "No, Blackie, I can't do it. I put everything I had into that song. I just can't repeat."

Blackie saw it was hopeless to argue. Al's face was white as a sheet; it was evident that the boy had drained his emotional energy to the utmost in putting the song over. Blackie turned quickly to a troupe of dancing girls and ordered them on the floor.

And then Molly swooped into the picture to seize Al's hands.

"Al, you were marvellous. I never heard anything like it. It's a beautiful song and every word thrilled me!"

Not until then did Al react sharply to his triumph. After all, the applause of the crowd was merely incidental, he had really been singing to Molly, and to her alone. And here she stood, looking up into his face with gentle understanding eyes, confidently near and dear to him. He tightened his grip on her hands and murmured earnestly.

"You see . . . now . . . how I feel?"

There was burning devotion in his glance and Molly answered him with a look fully as ardent. Then she said:

"Yes, Al, I do see now. I was a fool not to see before. Will you forgive me?"

Forgive her! He could hardly keep from taking her in his arms right there in the main room, with Grace and Blackie nearby and the admiring eyes of the crowd on him.

And then Molly's eyes dropped before the burning intensity of his gaze. Perhaps it was a feminine trick to make him feel she was abashed at letting him read her heart, perhaps she really was a trifle ashamed at playing up to him this way and deceiving him. For she didn't love him.

Grace, standing nearby, had watched this scene in its entirety. She understood it thoroughly. Something had happened besides Molly's reaction to the song to make her approach Al so tenderly and possessively. But whatever the cause Grace knew that Molly's renewed interest in the singing waiter sounded the death knell to the faint hopes that persisted in her own heart. Al belonged to Molly—he showed it by each word and play of expression. His love made him supremely happy and—there was nothing for Grace to do but slip away and try to pretend that she didn't carry an aching heart.

"Al," said Molly excitedly, "you're in luck! You know, that's Marcus of Broadway at the table where I was sitting. He thinks your song's a wow and he wants to see you. I've been plugging for you and telling him how good you are!"

"Marcus!" ejaculated Al.

"Yes," whispered Molly, "and you know what that means. It means success for both of us."

In this way did shrewd Molly link herself with Al, as a matter of course. He accepted it blissfully; it seemed ages ago that she had turned angry eyes on him. Now she was the Molly he adored and believed in, the radiant and affectionate Molly. She quickly wheeled him around, slipped her arm confidentially into his, and led him toward the Marcus table. In that moment she realized that she held him in the hollow of her hand; she could do with him as she pleased.

At the Marcus table Al was quickly introduced. Then the producer came directly to the point.

"You have some great catch lines in that number," he said, "and a good melody. I want it for my revue and I'll get it published for you."

Al sat down, facing Marcus. He was awed and fascinated by the man's appearance and authoritative manner. He knew Marcus by reputation—everybody in New York did—and he understood that Marcus's okay meant bright light fame for him, a mere singing waiter. Yet so blinded was Al by his adoration for Molly that it never occurred to him to think she was playing up to him because of Marcus's suddenly bestowed approval.

As Al faced the producer he felt Molly's hand, slipped surreptitiously and confidently into his own. He smiled happily and answered Marcus:

"But you know, that's not my song."

"Not your song?" repeated Marcus, obviously puzzled. Then he glanced toward Molly. "You said he wrote it."

"Yes, I wrote it," added Al quickly, "but it's really Molly's song. I wrote it for her—I couldn't have written it without her."

Marcus waved the remark aside; he wasn't interested in the sentimental reason for the song's creation.

"I don't care about that — you turned out the words and music. I want the number. I want all you can write like it. If you can hold up to that level and repeat consistently I can make your fortune for you!"

Marcus spoke convincingly — Al realized that he meant every word he said. But in all this talk he did not mention Molly. If the producer believed he could push Molly aside, thought Al, he was sadly mistaken. Al was determined that she should share in any success that came to him. He decided to speak plainly.

"I want Molly to sing everything I write," he asserted. "I want you to have the song, but if you take it you'll have to take Molly too."

Al thought the producer's face fell a trifle at that ultimatum.

"Don't you see," argued Al, almost vehemently, "that no one can put over my heart songs the way Molly does. You've never heard her sing—she's a wonder! And this number was written for her!"

Marcus shook his head. "But I've got a headliner of my own — a marvellous little girl. Your song will fit her perfectly."

"Headliner?" countered Al. "Yes, I know, but Molly would be a headliner, too, if you just give her a chance. Mark my words!"

Al scarcely recognized himself, talking up to this celebrity just as if Marcus didn't mean a thing to him. He felt Molly's grip on his hand tighten. Then, suddenly, the revue expert threw up his hands in acquiescence.

"All right, come to my office tomorrow. Both of you!"

Sky Scraper Apartment For Chicago Suburbs

Buildings De Luxe Designed Only For Wealthy Occupants

A really development group in Chicago is planning to take the skyscraper out into the country. It proposes the erection of a fifty-apartment "cloud-piercer" on a fifty-acre suburban tract "surrounded by country clubs and forest preservers." The apartment dwellers will have on their own collectively owned premises a golf course, tennis courts, a bridge path, a swimming pool and recreation fields for adults and juveniles. Their building will contain a clubhouse with dining, billiard and card rooms. Another community building a little distance away will house a drug store, delicatessen, beauty and barber shops, medical and dental offices. Thus the luxuries and conveniences of city life, plus the attractions and facilities of the spacious countryside, are promised the prospective buyers of these rural skyscraping apartments—which are being designed, it should go without saying, for "wealthy" occupants. —Brandon Sun.

Little Helps For This Week

"But without faith it is impossible to please Him; for he that cometh to God must believe that He is, and that He is a rewarder of them that diligently seek Him."—Hebrews xi. 6.

But turn, my soul, Learn thou the beauty of Omniscent care; Be strong in faith, bid anxious thoughts lie still; Seek for the good and cherish it; the ill Oppose, or bear with a submissive will.

—William Wordsworth.

To me, I confess, it seems a very considerable thing just to believe in God; difficult indeed to avoid honesty, but not easy to accomplish worthily, and impossible to compass to perfection; a thing not lightly to be professed, but rather humbly sought; not to be found at the end of any syllogism, but in the inmost fountains of purity and affection; not the sudden gift of intellect, but to be earned by a loving and brave life. It is, indeed, the greatest thing allowed to mankind, the germ of every lesser greatness.

—Anne Gilchrist.

Elephant Remembered Spot Where Mate Was Killed 44 Years Ago

Alice, 110-year-old elephant, who was with Jumbo when he was killed at St. Thomas, Ont., in 1885, was back there recently. When she arrived at the spot where Jumbo was killed Alice went to her knees, stamped and writhed and trumpeted shrilly, causing eight other elephants to go on a rampage. They were quieted and when Alice had to cross the same spot again she repeated her demonstrations of sorrow. A dog which is Alice's constant companion was used to bring her away.

Poultry Raisers Would Develop Breed With Four Drumsticks

Reports from Kansas of the development of a new breed of wingless chickens have inspired Jersey poultry raisers to attempt a cross-strain in which an extra pair of drumsticks will replace the discarded wings.

A breed which will be all white meat with no neck is also being sought by some iconoclasts, regardless of the dire effect on church suppers and pot-pie dinners for fire companies, which, according to their patrons, find wings and necks their mainstays.

Some farmers have expressed the fear that their flocks will be annihilated by automobiles when they have no wings to assist them in dodging cars, so one enterpriser is seeking to originate a breed of chickens which won't cross a road.

Four Didsburyites Have Part In Rescue At Syl- van Lake On Thursday

A very narrow escape from drowning in midwaters of Sylvan Lake occurred last Thursday forenoon when a boat occupied by Dr.
and Mrs. Scott, the former Superintendent of Calgary Schools, capsized and both plunged into the deep.

The upset was caused by over-balancing the boat in an effort to land a fish. Fortunately two other rowboats were near at hand and were quickly on the scene. One of the rescue boats was occupied by Rev. H. E. Roppel, pastor of the Didsbury Evangelical Church, in company with three of his Intermediate League — Christian Endeavor boys: Leonard Berscht, Geralt Boettger and Goldwin Gah-el. They in cooperation with three others in the other boat, succeeded in providing safety to the drowning parties as they got hold of and clung to the rescue boats and thus being rowed to shore without loss or hurt in any form.

Even the unlucky boat and its occupants' surplus coats, hats, etc., which were washed out of the boat, including the guilty fish on the line were all rescued.

fully meriting a generous response on the part of car owners living in that section of the province.

Drives for new members are also under way in other parts of the province, while those working in the interests of the A.M.A. found that a fresh conception of the value of services given to motorists and all others who use the highways is being held. When it is realized what the Association is doing for the motorists and highways of this province, there is a gratifying desire to accord support so fully warranted.

On all sides there are instances of special attention being given to the needs of motorists by representatives of the A.M.A.

Once case that came to notice was that of a town which was preparing to prosecute speeders under a newly framed by-law of its own. C. H.
Grant, K.C., who is counsel for the A.M.A., went to this town and when the case in which he was also defending counsel was called, he showed that the by-law would not stand. As a result the charge of speeding against his client, who was an Edmonton man, was withdrawn.

Offices of the A.M.A. in Calgary,

The Pyramids of the Prairies

The Pyramids of Egypt were built for the glory of ruling dynasties by tolling pyramids of slaves and with wealth, while from nearly tax-paying citizens. Centuries after construction of expensive toll with primitive tools built these gigantic monuments, the pride of a ruling class.

The Wheat Pool farmers of Western Canada are building an infinitely more valuable monument—a great system of elevators owned by themselves and operated for their protection and benefit. By means of an annual contribution of two cents for each bushel of wheat the Pool members of Alberta have provided over six million dollars for the construction of their elevator facilities.
Bound together by the ties of co-operation, these Pool farmers are working out a plan for their own economic freedom.

The clear sighted, far-seeing Pool member is extremely loyal to his own elevator system, realizing its value. Not only are Pool elevators operated for the Pool member's benefit, but they provide a strong shield to guard the welfare of the producer.
